Love Power And Justice The

Power is expressed in the making of laws. Love is the highest principle of all justice. The law given by God is consistent with man's essential nature. The concept of God as all-powerful does not mean that God can do whatever He wants but that God is the power of being in all that is. In God love, justice and power are one.

Love or Justice “Justice is an approximation of love under conditions of sin.” Although Reinhold Niebuhr never defined justice using these words, this one statement summarizes his thoughts surprisingly well. This connection between love and justice is beautiful in its simplicity and expansive in its implications.

Love or Justice

Justice is the “form in which the power of being actualizes itself” (56) under the principle of love (57). It is grounded in the essential claim of all beings as beings (as opposed to things). Justice is violated when this intrinsic claim is disregarded, Love, Power, and Justice: The Dynamics of Authentic ...

Justice is a negative application of love. Whereas love seeks out the needs of others, justice limits freedom to prevent its infringement upon the rights and privileges of others. Justice is a check (by force, if necessary) upon ambitions of individuals seeking to overcome their own insecurity at the expense of others.
